 - ii) Leasing arrangements/meeting place. The Centre is currently in the process of securing the Taxi Coop premises and is grateful for the additional funding from DIMA. This will result in more space being made available for community use. Occupancy of the 4th suite and refurbishment of Centre will be one of the priorities of the newly elected committee.
 - iii) MRC Service Agreement with the Department of Immigration and Multicultural Affairs continues to be renewed on an annual basis.

8. STAFF REPORTS

It has been very busy year. Statistics prove how busy we have been. New projects worth mentioning are:

 - (i) Rural Information Campaign which services the North, Central West, Central Coast of NSW and is fulfilling the thrust of Government Policy today: Promotion of Productive diversity is seen to benefit the community.
 - (ii) Leisure Access project is encouraging local Ethnic groups to participate in sport and leisure activities. It would be good to have a longer-term service agreement for planning purposes. We have seen the emergence of new communities in area; in particular, the Bosnian Community has just become an incorporated body.
- (iii) Community Project Officer - Irena Lupish: Report tabled and accepted as read. Immigration advice increasing, particularly from areas outside the Hunter.

MIGRANT RESOURCE CENTRE

PURPOSE

- The MRC of Newcastle and Hunter Region Ltd is a community based not for profit organization which has operated in the Newcastle area since its establishment by the Federal Government in 1981.
- The MRC's mission is to strive for the successful integration of migrants in the Hunter and through various projects, in outreach locations identified in the Department of Immigration and Multicultural Affairs Rural Strategy being the North, North West, and Central West of NSW.

MRC OBJECTIVES

- To deliver high quality settlement services to the target group
- To focus on service delivery for special needs groups – refugee/humanitarian entrants, newly arrived, unemployed, aged, young people and women.
- To promote an environment of mutual understanding between the mainstream and ethnic communities.
- To provide outreach services to people of NESB residing in isolated rural areas.

MIGRANT RESOURCE CENTRE

PRINCIPLES FOR MRC SERVICE DELIVERY

- Our clients are the reason for our existence;
- Each client is an individual, and has different needs determined by age, gender, ethnic background, recency of arrival, and life experiences and circumstances;
- Clients have a right to linguistically and culturally relevant services;
- Clients have the right to choice, dignity, respect, privacy and confidentiality;
- Clients have a right to value-free, non-discriminatory service;
- As a publicly funded agency, the Centre must operate in a transparent, and accountable way;
- Clients have a right to complain without fear of retribution, as contained in the MRC Client Service Charter.

CHAIRMAN'S ANNUAL REPORT 1999

Every year the Centre seems to face some sort of new challenge, in responding to government policy, in developing new projects, and in implementing new initiatives. It is part of life in this sector of ours, and we have become accustomed, and even adept at operating in an environment which demands flexibility, innovation, and above all, compromise.

This last year, the final in this amazing century, has proved especially memorable for us.

Without doubt, the Federal Government's decision to establish a Safe Haven at Singleton Army Base for displaced Kosovars signalled a period of intense activity. With other key agencies, we responded to the Department's request to be involved in the provision of care and support of the 700 or so Kosovars who were housed at Singleton from June until mid October.

The Management Committee and I are very proud of the performance of our staff in this difficult untried and highly sensitive exercise. Our team at Singleton worked tirelessly, seven days a week, in superb cooperation with other agencies, providing social, cultural, recreational and spiritual opportunities for our visitors, in order to make their brief respite in Australia as productive and sustaining as possible. It was an emotionally taxing experience as well for everyone involved, and it was with a heavy heart that we farewelled some of these poor souls returning to an uncertain future in the European winter. But our work made a difference; and lasting friendships were made, not only with those far away, but also with the agencies who worked side by side with us to create a truly and memorable Safe Haven for the victims of the war.

On a more mundane note, 1999 has resolved our longstanding quest for a place of our own. Finally, after 15 years, we enjoy total occupancy of Chaucer House, our base since 1984. Our growing pains began a long time ago, and it had been a constant challenge over the years to offer adequate facilities for our clients and our activities.

We greatly appreciate the cooperation of the Department of Immigration and Multicultural Affairs in achieving this expansion which has increased access for community groups to meeting rooms, and improved out of sight the accommodation of MRC projects and personnel.

Housekeeping improvements aside (important as they are!) it has also been very gratifying to be able to boost and expand our service delivery role through a number of additional partnerships with government departments.

Of special significance is our migration advisory service which has been highly sought after in the Hunter, and beyond: thanks to a successful tender we are now able to provide this free accredited service to eligible clients for a contract period of two years.

It is worth noting that it is through these extra partnerships that our Centre value adds immeasurably to outcomes of the Service Agreements we hold with our key funding body, DIMA. It pleases us to think that by extending and developing our services in this way we contribute positively to life outcomes for our clients.

I would like to take the opportunity to acknowledge the good work and effort of all our staff, most ably led by our coordinator, Violetta Walsh OAM. Equally my gratitude goes to my Committee, who have been extraordinarily committed to the goals of service excellence for the Centre. It has been a great pleasure working with such a fine team of people.

I wish you all the very best for a brand new Century.

Henry Chan

COORDINATOR'S REPORT

The past twelve months have been a very busy and productive period for the Centre. As its coordinator (I believe I'm probably the longest serving in Australia!), it has been my great pleasure not only to oversee the consolidation and expansion of the services we offer, but also to respond strategically to the service demands that have come to our attention in the course of the year.

The reports of MRC staff, which follow, detail more of the Centre's activities, and projects. You will note that this year, as in every year, specific projects have concluded, but new ones have commenced which address an identified issue or need, for which we have been fortunate enough to find a funding source. There are also the programs which are integrated into the overall service delivery focus of the Centre.

I would like to highlight some of the Centre's work during 1999.

If there is a single area of service delivery, which stands out in terms of its usage rate, it is the Migration Advisory Service provided by our two registered agents. During 1999, over 2500 face to face and phone consultations were provided, with aprox 20% of demand coming from outside the Hunter. Ours is one of only 4 advisory services operating north of Hornsby which are free to eligible clients. Our contract with DIMA to provide the services will conclude in 2001.

Our outreach work has continued strongly with most of our projects offering services in locations appropriate to clients - our Family Support, and Filipino Welfare Projects, and our employment programs. But outreaching was boosted significantly in October by the announcement of DIMA funding for 2 Community Settlement services workers for two years. This will continue a momentum begun earlier of a strong emphasis on access and equity in rural centres and in settings in our own Region, which are geographically difficult or isolated.

Refugee support has remained a high priority on the Centre's agenda.

Our Refugee and Humanitarian Entrant Workers have provided both welfare and employment support for the Hunter arrivals - who, while few in number, have high need. . Our service will continue till June 2000, when following a tender process, a new service regime will commence nationally. We will be trying for a piece of this action. Refugee Week was well marked in the Hunter, and the Centre's promotional work has led to greater recognition of refugees in rural areas

Employment is integral to good settlement, and in the face of stubborn unemployment statistics - the Region's remains higher than the State average - the Centre has maintained employment services largely through funding from the State Department of Education and Training. Our Specialist Migrant Placement Program has assisted 294 individual clients with skill recognition, work experience and training placement, and with full and part time employment, with 45 clients achieving this important goal. Working side by side with our SMPO, the Rural Information Campaign has also continued to promote the benefits of Productive Diversity throughout North West of NSW, with 4 Productive Diversity Networks established in rural areas, actively building awareness and acceptance of a culturally diverse workforce in non metropolitan areas. Both of these excellent programs have been subject to review by the State Government and frustratingly enough, no guarantees are available yet of their continuation beyond June 2000.

Henry Chan, our Chairperson has alluded to the major response required by the Centre to support the Federal Governments Safe Have initiative in Singleton for displaced Kosovars. The exercise is now over – but I must say it has taken its toll of the workers who formed the MRC team at the Army Base. I want to express my appreciation to Alex Burns who acted as our team leader, who was charged with being responsible for building a sense of community in the context of a short and frequently troubled sojourn by these tragic people in the isolation of an army camp in Singleton.

Several small but innovative projects also commenced at the Centre, each resulting from successful submissions to the Hunter Area Assistance Scheme, the Federation Projects Program, and the Tenants and Community Initiatives Program respectively. The first has embarked on the brave exercise of developing greater interaction between Newcastle City Council and various ethnic communities of that constituency. The project arose from the development of an Ethnic Affairs Policy by the Council. Funding from the Federation Projects Program has allowed us to develop and pilot a Citizenship Skills Course. We were very proud to be one of only 10 projects funded in the Newcastle Electorate, and we look forward to having a citizenship resource kit for future reference. The last program will work with the Department of Housing to develop a profile of its NESB clients, and assist them to form a consumer group to advocate in housing matters, and disseminate information to clients.

While small in scale, these projects are exciting, and have great potential. We are very pleased too with these new partnerships that they forge between this agency, and quite differing government departments. Several others are in the pipeline – and we are optimistic that there will be good outcomes in the next few months.

So as you can infer, the Centre remains a bustling and busy place. We have all been boosted recently by the opportunity of acquiring additional space, within our much loved building, Chaucer House. We now occupy Chaucer House fully, and I must say feel very much at home. The expansion was accompanied by a serious refurbishment of our administrative section, and all our long-standing clients and groups have been very pleasantly surprised by the revamp.

The refurbishment also prompted us to look closely at our IT systems and I am pleased to report that we are now well advanced in the latest technology – and well prepared for the millennium. We only hope everyone else is.

Finally, on behalf of our staff I want to extend our sincere appreciation for the support and guidance given by our Committee of Management, and especially by Mr Henry Chan, our Chairperson. We are extremely fortunate as an agency to have attracted a Board of such wideranging skills, interests, not to mention ethnicity, who nonetheless share a common vision and a purpose.

I must note too that our multicultural staff offers another fine example of harmony in diversity. We do have a fine team here, intelligent, loyal and hardworking. I want to thank them all for making my job easier, and special thanks to Lulu Tantos who looked after the Centre during my lengthy holiday.

My thanks to all the Centre's supporters, agency colleagues, and our funding bodies. We have been especially well serviced by our consultant from the Department of Immigration and Mult Affairs, Zaga Nagy, who graces her Department with wisdom and humanity.

Violetta Walsh

Community Project Officer - 1999 Annual Report

(Funded by the Department of Immigration & Multicultural Affairs)

This project continues to provide service to the client group in the Hunter, Central Coast and North Coast. Our clients come from 53 different cultural backgrounds. We also provide information, support and advice to the government and non-government agencies as well as general community.

Service Delivery

♦ Immigration Information and Advice Service.

A total of 461 face to face consultation have been conducted by me during the year and over 986 telephone consultations. Please refer to Fig 1 and Fig 2 for details. There is a noticeable increase in provision of the immigration advice service to the people of rural and remote areas. We provide regular outreach services and our clients come from Newcastle, Lake Macquarie, Upper Hunter, Gosford, Wyong, Woy Woy, Evans Heads, Coffs Harbour, Lismore, Lightning Ridge, Casino, Orange, Armidale, Uralla, Grafton, Kyogle. Fig 3 shows the origins of all clients who received assistance from this service.

♦ 1999 Multicultural Services Expo.

First time in Newcastle, it proved to be a great success. Over 300 representatives from the government and non-government agencies and individuals attended the function. Over 20 ethno-specific services participated giving the mainstream community a very sound knowledge of what is available for the migrants in the region.

♦ Migrant Women Forums

In conjunction with Violence Against Women project I have organised 2 Migrant Women Forums - one for the Upper Hunter and one for the Newcastle area. The aim was to give migrant women information on services available to them.

♦ 1999 Austcare Refugee Week

2 functions were held in Newcastle area. An evening function at the Newcastle Regional Museum with static displays and performance by the Aboriginal Dance group. We were joined by many official guests, local communities and Kosovars. We also supported activities in Coffs Harbour, Grafton and Bathurst. Members of the Hunter Refugee Support Network gave talks to students at local schools.

COMMUNITY SETTLEMENT SERVICES SCHEME - LEVEL 3
(Funded by the Department of Immigration & Multicultural Affairs)

INTRODUCTION

The CSS Level 3 project continued to provide services in 1998/9 to Migrants living in Rural Areas of Northern NSW as part of the Rural Settlement work of DIMA. The CSS workers and migrant communities based in this region of NSW were the focus of this work. While the normal range of CSS work was conducted, the arrival of the Kosovars at Singleton meant the worker employed under this project became team leader for the MRC's Safe Haven work.

DIRECT SERVICES TO CLIENTS.

A proportion of the work of all CSS projects is direct client services. For this project this is shown in Table 1. As can be seen Settlement information, on how and where to access services, was the largest issue addressed. Further, two fifths of those assisted were men. Other problem areas included assistance with Immigration issues and matters covering Family and Parenting inquiries with many of these being aged issues.

Table 1: Face to Face Services

Issue	F	M	Total	Issue	F	M	Total
Immigration	15	21	36	Housing	1	1	2
Income Sup.	8	-	8	Legal	-	2	2
Employment	15	9	24	Settlement Info	74	53	127
Education	32	6	38	Dom. Violence	1	-	1
Health	4	3	7	Other	5	3	8
Family/Parent	23	3	26	Total	176	101	277

The profile of the client group shows that most of the clients had been long term settlers, with 67 percent having lived in Australia for greater than 5 years. 78 percent were aged between 25 – 55 years of age but at the same time 66 percent were first time clients. Further the clients were largely from Bosnia, the Philippines or China

GROUP SERVICES

Table 2 shows the Group Services provided by this project. As will be noted this was a fairly major area of the work undertaken and covered work with a range of interagency bodies, government organisations and non-government agencies like Neighbourhood Centres.

Like direct client service, Settlement Information was a major issue area for this project. The high education area is a reflection of work in addressing students at TAFE and University while those on Family included many on working with aged people of Non English Speaking Background.

OUTREACH AND RURAL WORK

Strong support was directed to assist the CSS projects in regional and rural areas and this consisted of direct face to face work with the CSS projects based at Lismore, Woolgoolga, Coffs Harbour, Lightning Ridge, Wyoming, Bathurst, as well as those based in Newcastle at the MRC and at the Ethnic Communities Council. Table 3, shows this through the pattern of visitation, which took place in 1998/9. As would be expected visits to groups living closer to Newcastle were more common than to those more distant. Support for the travel was enhanced with a small travel support Migrant Access Project Subsidy (MAPS) from DIMA. The value of this travel subsidy was evident in supporting the CSS projects both in preparing for the new round of funding that took place early in 1999 and with the establishment of workplaces to address these new projects.

The Rural Workers Conference organised by this project for all rural based CSS projects that took place in May was also very successful. It took place at the regional office of DIMA at Parramatta, covered many issues and was attended by many more CSS workers than in previous years.

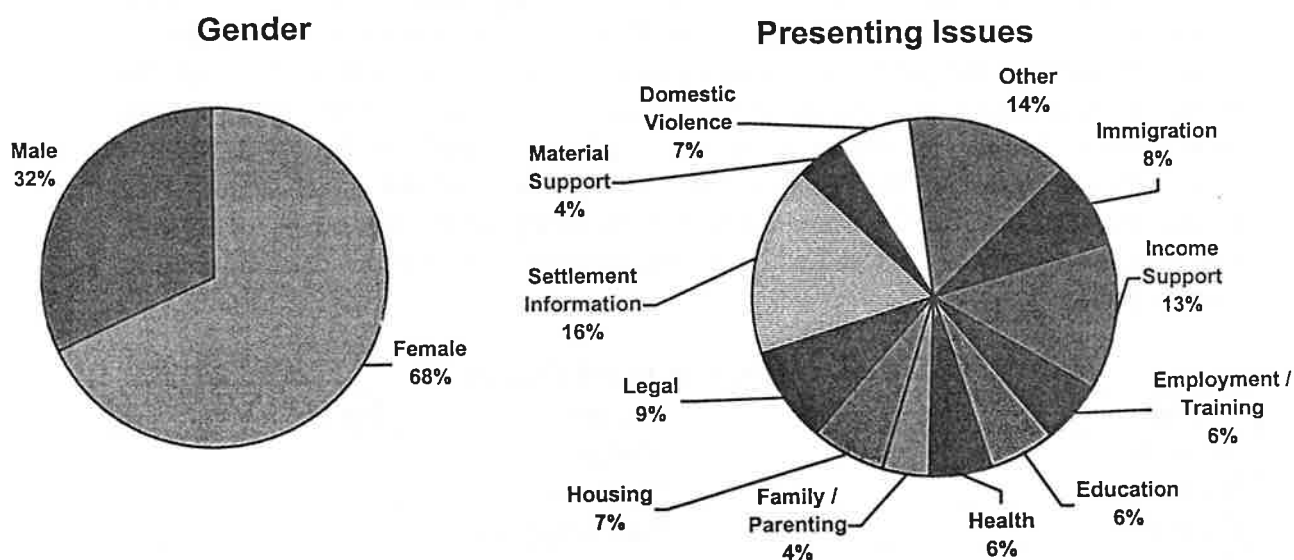

Alex Burns

General Client Services:

1998 – 1999 has been a very busy year for me. The best news of the year was that the project has been refunded by DIMA for a further two years. The aim of the project is to provide information referral and casework to recently arrived migrants and humanitarian entrants for their immediate and ongoing settlements needs.

While helping new arrivals settle, I also recognize the needs of older or long term residents who did not have an opportunity to gain literacy in English and as a result find themselves in difficult situations. It is important that these needs continue to be met.

Clients assisted during the course of the year numbered 1360. The majority were women (925) forming 67% of this total figure. 56% of clients (775) were aged between 25-55 years of age and humanitarian entrants (840) comprised 61% of those requiring assistance. Some 406 or 29% were new clients.

“Settlement issues” was the major focus of services provided - 16% (242), followed by income support 13% (180) and ‘other issues’ 14% (202) comprising dealings with insurance companies, banks, phone companies, embassies, BHP superannuation funds, reading letters, filling forms, travel agents, electoral office, isolation, driving requirements, social, etc.

The largest Ethnic group in receipt of services was the Bosnians followed by people of Macedonian and Serbian background. Other groups using the service were Thai, Greek, Indonesian, Croatian which reflect the Multicultural aspect of the project.

During this time I was also involved in Singleton Safe Haven. While it was not a full time position it was a great experience and privilege to work with Kosovars.

Group Services:

29 information sessions were organized in partnership with Centrelink, TAFE, Hunter Community Legal Centre, Hunter Health and Hunter Tenants Advice Service, ECC, Department of Fair Trading on a wide range of issues with "settlement information" being 37% (173) of total 463 participants.

These groups were held at the MRC Newcastle as well as at Swansea, Maitland, Singleton, Muswellbrook, Kurri Kurri, Cessnock, Salamander Bay and resulted in a positive feedback.

These joint activities with other service providers have enabled and increased awareness of the issues affecting NESB clients.

The Multicultural and Bosnian Women's Groups have proven to be successful and continue to attract increasing numbers of women. Moreover these groups have been providing a link for participants and have been a vehicle for fostering increased confidence and individual development for many NESB women. Women participating in these groups come from a variety backgrounds and have developed firm friendships supporting each other and new-comers to the group.

Outreach information and referral services were provided to the Singleton, Lake Macquarie and Port Stephens Local Government areas. Some 340 clients of 21 different ethnic backgrounds were provided with face-to-face casework services in not only already established areas such as Singleton and Edgeworth but other areas as well as Maitland, Rutherford, Cessnock, Kurri Kurri, Raymond Terrace, Nelson Bay, Toronto, Belmont, Swansea, Muswellbrook.

The CSS project's success could not be possible without the support and encouragement of various individuals. I would like to thank the Management Committee, the MRC Coordinator and my colleagues for their ongoing support

Humanitarian Entrant Workers – 1999 Annual Report

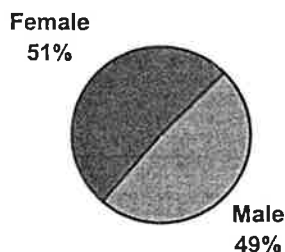

Focus (1) Welfare – 3 days/week

In the year 1 October 1998 to 30 September 1999, I worked with 94 clients, of whom 46 were new referrals. There were 1009 services to clients, including face to face and telephone services, and 27 group sessions co-facilitated with Jasmina Bajraktarevic from STARTTS, using the Families in Cultural Transition course material (see Table 1).

2. Client Profiles (in percentages)

The majority of clients continue to be from the former Yugoslavia. However, as a result of the war in Kosovo and the subsequent temporary closure of the Australian embassy in Belgrade, the number of Humanitarian Entrant arrivals slowed considerably from May onward.

MRC Refugee Housing Project

The two town houses have been tenanted continuously, with new families from Bosnia going in in February and May respectively. Maintenance work has included tree-logging and attention to persistent leaks. Security systems have been installed in both houses following an attempted burglary.

Refugee Week

Refugee Week was celebrated in October with 2 functions. The main function, attended by 80 – 100 people, was the launch in the Newcastle Museum of a model of the Singleton Safe Haven Camp, and the presentation of certificates of appreciation to organisations and individuals who assisted in the camp. There was also a picnic on the Foreshore for the local community to farewell the Kosovars.

Pat Dring

Focus (ii) Employment – 2 days / week

In the year from 1 October 1998 to 30 September 1999, I provided a case management service to 49 clients. The majority of services were related to job-search: contacting employers, compiling resumes and job application letters. Other services were related to training: liaising with private training companies and TAFE, WEA, Hunter Community College and DET. There were 16 information sessions held during the year and attendees included humanitarian entrants' service providers, community groups, service clubs and volunteers

1. Service Provision

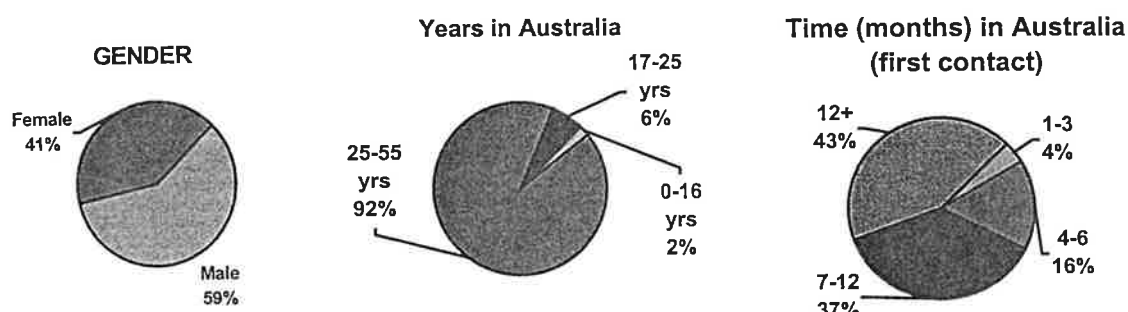

Bosnia, Croatia and Serbia were the major countries of origin for clients.

With one exception, all clients came from the Newcastle LGA.

Referrals to the service came from the Bosnian community, self-referrals or from TAFE.

Very few clients were co-managed with other service providers.

2. Client Profiles (in percentages)

3. Group Sessions

Information sessions have been given to large numbers of clients, service providers and community organisations. They include: Rotary Clubs, TAFE volunteers, tutors, refugees attending the FICT course and the Newcastle VIEW club.

4. Community Networks Serviced

Hunter Refugee Support, Central Coast Migrant Interagency, Humanitarian Entrant Workers' Forum, Convenor of HAMECC (Hunter Adult Migrant Education Co-ordinating Committee)

5. Major Features

MULTICULTURAL FAMILY SUPPORT WORKER
ANNUAL REPORT 1999
 Funded by Department of Community Services

During this year Family support Services have provided to 175 people from 40 different ethnic backgrounds. 38 people were assisted only once and most of the remaining were seen on an ongoing basis. Nearly half of the clients were people who arrived to Australia in the last 5 years.

CLIENT PROFILE:

CLIENTS NEEDS:

The following table shows the issues people I was faced with.

Issue/Problem	No. of Instances	Issue/Problem	No. of Instances
Family/Parenting	350	Income Support	79
Isolation	131	Grief and Loss	76
Housing	122	Language	75
Legal	104	Employment & Education	67
Domestic Violence	96	Immigration	58
Health	85	Other	126

Other included relationships outside the family, police matters, missing persons (overseas), defamation, harassment, discrimination, cultural awareness, consumer affairs matters, and issues related to electricity, telephone and insurance companies.

This year the issue of Grief and Loss has a category of its own due to the large number of instances in this area.

Cases of domestic violence increased nearly 50% from the previous year. This may be due to greater awareness among community organisations and government agencies of Multicultural Family Support Services and the Multicultural Women Support Group run at the MRC. Domestic Violence cases were referred this year by many organisations such as Life Line, Police, Legal services, Welfare Agencies, Women's Refuges, John Hunter Hospital and the other health agencies.

SERVICES PROVIDED:

Family Support provided clients a wide range of services. These included information (362), referrals (168), advocacy (129), mediation (118), assistance with forms, letters and other documents (116). Family Support clients were also provided with home visits (58), hospital visits (17), court support (7) and personal support in general.

MULTICULTURAL WOMEN'S SUPPORT GROUP (MWSG)

MWSG has now about 50 members and continues to be a success. It has continued to empower women through the position of information sessions and workshops related to their needs. Also the running of this group has been a great tool for combating isolation which is one of the principal issues faced by new arrivals, mums with infants and toddlers, and women who experience or had experienced domestic violence. Through the MWSG many women have developed strong friendships and / or have found the support they needed when experiencing rough times.

NETWORK

Throughout the year I attended the following meetings on a regular basis: Caseworkers, Wallsend Welfare Network, Domestic Violence Court Assistance Scheme, DOCS CALD Advisory Committee, and Centrelink Migrant Forum. Other meetings and forums attended included: Migrant Women Assistance Network, Department of Immigration Information Sessions, Waratah Police Domestic Violence Forum, Migrant Women's Forum, Hunter Community Legal Centre Forum, NSW Suicide Prevention Project for NESB Communities Consultation, Department of Juvenile Justice NESB Young People Consultation, Warlga Nguerra Women's Refugee Official Opening, Migrant Services Expo and Refugee Week Celebration.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

The attendance to seminars and conferences related to areas of family support is very important in order to provide the best possible services to the clients. Accordingly, this year I attended the following:

- Relationship Counselling and Conflict Resolution Seminar
- Abuse Counselling Seminar
- Living with Mental Illness Seminar
- Stress Management Workshop
- Maximising Resilience on Children Conference
- A Stretch in Time. Issues on child and Adolescent Mental Health Conference

CONCLUSION:

This year was a very challenging one as a great deal of my work load was related to crises situations. But the rewards have been enormous and I look forward to continue assisting those in need in the year 2000.

MARCELA SUTCLIFFE

1999 Annual Report Filipino Welfare Worker

Funded by the Department of Community Services

I have been in the service for seven years now and the job continues to be interesting, very challenging and at times, stressful. Cases are diverse and complex. I have, however, terrific support from many of my colleagues at the centre and I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone.

Once again, this year my work consisted of casework outreach, community development and I attended various meetings, trainings, seminars and conferences.

Casework

Due to extensive demand of casework services here in the Newcastle area, most of my time has been centre based. However, I have maintained regular contact with Filipinos in the Mid and Upper Hunter. I also counselled and generally supported Filipino women (via the telephone service) from Central Coast, Taree, The Blue Mountains, Gunnedah, Goulburn, Lismore and Sydney.

Client Statistics

From November 1998 to November 1999, 1599 instances of client service were recorded. Some of them presented problems that were of a deep and serious nature. On many occasions a client presented a number of concerns and difficulties. The issues face by clients are described in the following table:

Problem/Issue	No. of Instances
Family/Parenting	219
Settlement Information	170
Income Support & Finances	168
Immigration & Citizenship	130
Legal	118

Health/Isolation	90
Employment	61
Language difficulty	50
Youth Issues	49
Education & Training	46

Other includes death, bereavement, relationship conflicts outside family, social/emotional, police matters, letters of support, passport renewals, filing up forms, plane fare ticket refund, wedding, problem with a co-worker, problem with an employer, neighbour disputes, problems in organising a community celebration, travel offences, infringement notices, suicide, gun license, problems/issues with various services such as Telstra, Public Guardian, Real Estates, Optus, Energy Australia, an Insurance Company, students enquiries on cross-cultural workers and marriage issues, general information.

Outreach Work

During the year, I have maintained a fairly regular contact with Filipinos in the Mid and Upper Hunter. I had several meetings with the Filipino Women's Group of Cessnock and Kurri-Kurri on two occasions. During these trips I homevisited several Filipinas living in the area.

Community Development

Some group sessions have been organised for Filipino women with Barbara Knorr, Multicultural Officer of Migrant Health as guest speaker e.g. Stress Management, Relaxation Therapy and Dealing with Depression and, also three sessions on Assertiveness Training.

In conjunction with Stuart Carter, Outreach Coordinator of Muswellbrook TAFE a free sewing classes was organised for Filipino women in Singleton. Recently, I have organised the Friday Craft Group of Filipino Women being held at the MRC.

Rural Information Campaign - Annual Report 1999

1 November 1998 – 31 October 1999

The Rural Information Campaign (North West Region) funded by the NSW Department of Education and Training has been extended from May 1999 to end of December 1999. The position is part-time (24 hours / week) and has achieved the following objectives:

PRODUCTIVE DIVERSITY NETWORKS

These have been established in four areas: Newcastle, Central Coast, Orange/Bathurst, Lismore, with two quarterly meetings held in each location. Attendances have been increasing, with community agencies, employers, job-seeking migrants and governments departments represented. Migrants have been surveyed on their job-seeking needs and those interested have been registered on a central database available to employers.

PRESENTATIONS

Varying topics have been covered – migrant qualifications, interview skills, recognition processes, networking etc to different groups: employer groups, non-English speaking background clients, Area Consultative Committee members, service clubs etc. These have been made in Coffs Harbour, Woolgoolga, Newcastle, Orange, Ballina and the Central Coast. Resources have been prepared, updated and supplied to all interested people.

BUSINESS LINKS

These have been made in range of locations with: State and Regional Development (Women in Business Mentor Program), local Councils, Business Enterprise Centres, SOCOG, Chambers of Commerce, Employment Agencies, Job Network providers.

COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS

Attendance has been regular at the Newcastle and Central Coast Migrant Interagencies.

PUBLICITY

A range of publicity initiatives across the North West area has been undertaken. It has included written articles, radio interviews, radio and print advertising, sponsorship of "Cultural Stomp" (Newcastle), "Diversity Works" newsletter distributed in various locations and the purchase of 2000 promotional stickers in partnership with the South West program.

"DIVERSITY WORKS" FORUMS

These were held in Newcastle, Orange and on the Central Coast and were very successful with over 25 people attending each one. Community sector representatives, employers, government departments, local council, AMES, Anti-Discrimination Board and the Central West Inland Marketing Corporation also attended.

UNIVERSITY PROJECT

Four graduate students in the School of Marketing at Newcastle University took up the Rural Information Officer's proposal to evaluate the marketing strategy of the Campaign in the local region. They developed a questionnaire looking at employer perceptions of migrant employees' potential, and evaluated the responses received. A marketing strategy should be the outcome of this project, but it may not eventuate until next year as the students are developing this in their own time.

SKILLS AUDIT

Migrants in each of the four Productive Diversity Networks have been surveyed as to their skills, qualifications and readiness for work. Through the Newcastle Migrant Services Officer, statistics have been gathered on clients from non-English speaking backgrounds who are on Newstart allowance, who live in each of the four Network areas. Current EAC statistics and this information, is used for employer assistance and particularly for Job Network providers.

SOCOG

Enquiries have been made about employment opportunities with the Olympic Games and also about post-Games employment, particularly as it affects country areas. Adecco, the major recruitment company involved, gave details on both aspects and further contact will be made with them and other major function organisers next year.

Thank you to all staff at the Centre for their assistance. Particular thanks go to Carla Bekker, who starts her happy new life elsewhere, but takes many thanks, much appreciation and very best wishes for her future with her.

ANNUAL REPORT 1999

Key Performance Indicators

Clients achieving full-time employment	23
Clients achieving temporary or part-time employment	22

Secondary Performance Indicators

Clients assisted	294
Clients placed in work experience	11
Clients enrolled in short term training	31
Clients enrolled in long term training	7

CLIENTS BY COUNTRY OF ORIGIN

While the majority of clients are from Europe, principally Former Yugoslavia, numbers from Asia, especially China are increasing.

Clients from Asia generally are well prepared for job searching, bringing full documentation related to qualifications, translated and they are mainly well educated people with strong motivation to succeed.

MAJOR IMPACTS ON SERVICES

The Job Network

The impact of the Federal Government funded Job Network on our clients is very small. During the year I visited and liaised with a number of the Job Network members on a regular basis, including regular referral of clients. Clients have indicated a degree of frustration with the services offered by the Job Network members. Centrelink's explanation of Job Network services does not appear to be clear to many clients. Whether this is because of poor organisation by Centrelink or because of failure to provide interpreters where necessary is uncertain, perhaps both are factors. Job Network members vary in their response to the needs of our clients. While most acknowledge the special circumstances of job seekers from non English speaking background, little evidence is available to indicate that this is being followed through with commensurate services. Job Network members are mostly reluctant to offer interpreters at interviews for instance because of the cost. If clients are involved in job search courses or training no special effort appears to be made to cater to these clients' particular and specific needs and circumstances that may affect their job search activities. They appear to be merely "lumped in" with the rest of the group.

Because people of non English speaking background are such a small minority and often require more complicated procedures to become work ready they are easily ignored or their cases put aside indefinitely. Cross cultural training of staff would be beneficial.

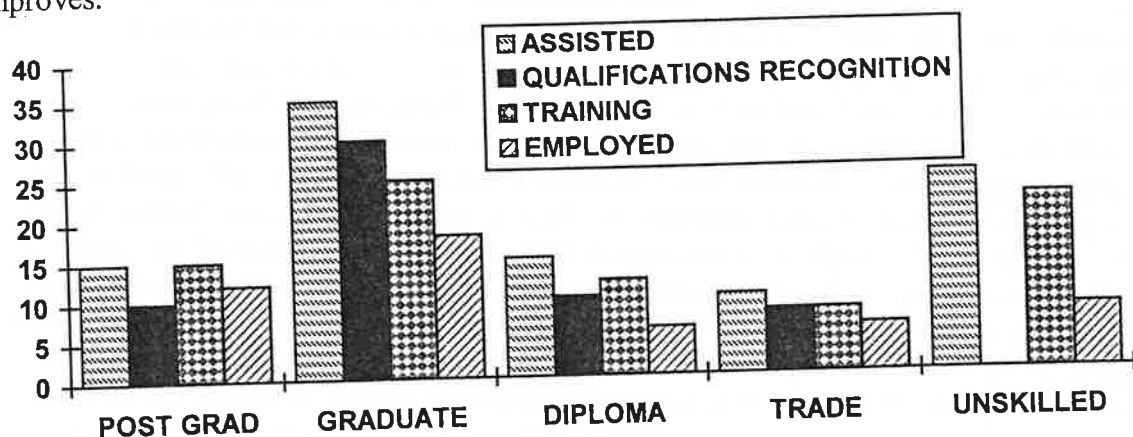

BHP Closure

During the year I liaised with David Bennett of the HR Department of BHP. David visited the MRC and spoke with Violetta Walsh and me regarding the possible numbers and needs of BHP retrenched of NESB. Based on discussions with Jenny McDonald, who has been a literacy teacher for NESB at BHP for many years it was estimated that up to 300 workers of NESB with literacy problems would be among those retrenched. These would be largely made up of people from Former Yugoslavia. These will be largely semi skilled plant operators, labourers and cleaners. Aside from holding industrial tickets such as health and safety and plant operation, they do not have many transferable skills that will facilitate their access to alternative employment options.. Accordingly David Bennett was able to arrange for me to visit the BHP site on two occasions to address groups of workers of NESB with an interpreter present.

The full impact of the BHP closure on the Newcastle is yet to be experienced, however, with an increasingly small manufacturing / industrial sector retrenched without strong English skills are most likely to find great difficulty securing long term employment or indeed any employment in Newcastle.

ACTIVITIES & OUTCOMES BY SKILL LEVEL

Although skill level appears to have minimum effect on employment outcomes, it is important to keep in mind that this graph does not indicate relevance of employment gained to qualifications. Many if not the majority of highly qualified clients obtain employment at a far more menial level than their qualifications indicate and often in an occupation removed from the one they have trained in. This is a result primarily of a reluctance on the part of the employer to test skills and experience acquired overseas. Even when a job seeker's qualifications are recognised by the authorising body or formally accepted as equivalent there is evidence of employer resistance. It is only when the client gains Australian qualifications from an Australian tertiary institution that his / her success in gaining employment dramatically improves.

TOTAL	51		607

Hostels not Commonwealth funded but are visited by Volunteer Visitors*

We have 27 accredited Visitors with 18 in operation this year. Some of these visit more than one resident and this is reflected in the total 36.*

Table 1 shows the results of the operation of the MRC's Community Visitors Scheme for the period 1998 – 1999. As can be seen we visit 19 Nursing Homes and Hostels. While we have a total of 27 Accredited Visitors only 18 have been in operation through the year. Some of these visit more than one resident and thus the actual Visitation is equivalent to 36 visitors.

The 51 Residents represent 12 language groups with the main languages being Ukrainian, Polish, Dutch and Russian. In all 607 Visits were made by our Visitors to residents of approximately 34 Visits per Community Visitor.

Some of our Visitors have been sick, two have been on well-deserved Holidays. Over this same period we lost 6 residents.

During this financial year several training sessions were provided and a Christmas party and a "Volunteers Week" luncheon were organised. Some of these events were held in conjunction with the Volunteers of the Ethnic Community Council. The difficulty in maintaining pools of Volunteers who have a language background means that we utilise a common pool with the Ethnic Communities Council.

It is heart warming to see a mixture of nationalities not only having fun but also working together looking after their elderly. I find it a pity that the younger generation is not so involved with this.

To find a suitable Volunteer it is necessary to spend a considerable amount of time. This is used in finding the right personality and language speaking person required. At times it feels as if you are looking for a needle in a haystack. There are happy moments too. For example an elderly couple in a hostel needed a Volunteer. They spoke Spanish which at that time it was a language that none of my volunteers were able to speak. Through communicating with the Spanish speaking Community we found a person willing to visit. When they met it became a happy reunion. The Volunteer Visitor had been looking for these people for some time as they used to meet at a social function in their neighbourhood but because of circumstances they lost touch with each other. Those happy endings makes it very rewarding.

Time is something you can not buy or borrow. May I through my report thank you all our Volunteers who gave their precious time and compassion to those who needed it. Without them this project would not be in existence.

Thank you everyone
Ann Dupree

1999 ETHNIC LIAISON OFFICER – ANNUAL REPORT

My project commenced on 1 June 1999. It is funded by the Hunter Assistance Scheme and based at the MRC, Hamilton. This project aims to liaise with Newcastle City Council and ethnic communities, to promote the services run by local government agencies, and to facilitate the entry of NESB people into Newcastle City Council affairs.

Objectives and Accomplishments to date.

1. To develop contacts with key individuals and ethnic groups in the Newcastle area.

This was a basic strategy of the project. Various methods were used to develop contact with the selected groups being:

- ◆ Chinese
- ◆ Vietnamese
- ◆ Bosnian
- ◆ Macedonian
- ◆ Korean
- ◆ Muslim Women's Group

Methods included: letter writing, fax, phone, personal visits, and attendance at community functions after hours, and weekend events. Migrant English classes were visited at TAFE and the Multicultural Neighbourhood Centre, and I attended an Ethnic Affairs Consultation at Lake Macquarie City Council. Additionally I took part in interagency meetings. These were important opportunities for me to get to know the communities, and establish my own networks.

2. To conduct a survey among ethnic communities, regarding their perceptions of the council, their needs etc.

A survey was designed and circulated among members of the key communities. The results showed that most participants thought local government facilities and services were either "helpful" or "satisfactory". The survey was useful, helping us understand people's perceptions of local government, especially regarding barriers of access to existing services and facilities. There were indications too that local government needed to understand that some people of NESB experienced difficulties in accessing services, and some affirmative action was required in the spheres of library, sport, health, and various regulations. Survey feedback was given to the Council's Social Planner for information and possible action.

3. To provide information to the people of NESB, let them know the local government's structure, relevant services and social activities.

Feedback from ethnic people shows that some NESB people feel frustrated in the process of settlement, due to language problems and being unable to get the message across to the service provider. If some strategies are adapted and used well, these barriers could be overcome or removed in some degree.

A clear strategy, which has emerged for me, is the collection of information written in plain English, or the specific ethnic language to further disseminate information among communities.

I took an opportunity to make a short presentation on the Chinese language SBS Radio Program – this was broadcast in August and September. This was also an opportunity to promote the MRC, its services and facilities.

Three information sessions have now been conducted for Vietnamese, Bosnian and Chinese respectively by various Council bureaucrats. All three were most successful promoting positive direct contact between these groups and the mainstream providers.

4. To provide consultancy to the Council's officers regarding impacts of policy and service development.

I attended a debriefing with local government, and put forward several strategies of improved communication between groups and Council. These included translating policies and regulations and using multi-lingual signs in the City Administrative Centre.

A key area is that of Library access, and I am in the process of preparing a Chinese translation of Library regulations and provisions. I will investigate the availability of other translated material from other Local Government areas, to avoid unnecessary duplicate

Cross-cultural training is an important strategy, which would assist Council in their service responses. A cross cultural package has been prepared which incorporates further consultations with various NESB groups, but also addresses the profile of ethnic settlement in the area, and cultural insights, and perceptions of local government.

I would like to thank all the Centre's staff and the Coordinator in particular. I'm happy to work with dedicated, skilled and enthusiastic colleagues in a wonderful working environment. I have increased my skills and experience after having worked half a year at the Migrant Resource Centre.

Annual Report
Citizenship Skills
12 November 1999

Following my acceptance of this position as project officer, I took up duty on Monday 12 July with the following brief.

I was to research, organise, write and teach a course in Citizenship and Democracy in Australia - past, present and future.

My target group was delineated thus – new and intending citizens

- longer settled citizens
- interested people from the community

The length of the course was set out as 8 weeks times 3 hours = 24 contact hours.

Materials had to be assembled and a kit put together - for future use.

Participants had to be located along with guest presenters.

The course had to be promoted – generally and to the target audience.

The project officer was to work out of the MRC and become part of the MRC organization.

Three additional one off workshops/seminars on specific areas of interest were also to be conducted for NESB communities.

The course was to be run at a time suitable to the majority of people.

To achieve these goals, I firstly contacted a wide range of people who I knew to have an interest in these topics – either through professional networks or through personal interest. These contacts included the following –

Newcastle University – Assoc. Prof. Dr. Doug Absalom, Ruth Reynolds

NSW Dept. of Education and Training – Sue Field, John Gore, Robyn Fuggacia, Dragana Koncar, Wendy Muskin, Debra Sullivan.

Newcastle City Council – Michelle Seymour, Therese Potsma, Bill Swift, Christine Judd, Jamie McKay, Chris Minehan.

TAFE Outreach – Nancy O' Connor, Jane Klein

NSW Board of Studies – Merv Newman

Aboriginal Community – Donna Meehan, Lionel Ridgeway, Charles Davison.

United Nations Association – Tom Jones

Australian Republican Movement

Australians for a Constitutional Monarchy

Media – ABC Radio, 2NUR-FM, 2NX, 2HD, New-FM, NBN Television, Prime Television, The Newcastle Herald..

Websites – Parliamentary Education Office, Canberra; Australian Electoral Commission; Dept. of Immigration and Multicultural Affairs; ABC / Dept. of Education and Training; NSW Government.

After setting a date for an information session (Wednesday, 11 August) I was interviewed on ABC radio by John Clarke on 28 July, to advertise this fact (and the course in general) and posted 58 invitations to members of various ethnic communities, using MRC mailing lists. Before this I spent some time over three phone calls attempting to obtain a list of new and intending citizens from officers of Newcastle City Council. Sent news releases to all of the above Media outlets, with a full course outline and suggested weeks/dates.

At the information session, dates and times were agreed so the course could be finally written and all the presenters informed of what was required of them. I spent considerable time then, talking personally to all staff at the MRC to ensure they all had an idea of the scope and size of my work. After finally getting Newcastle City Council to agree to send the information out for me, they changed their minds and sent me the information I had requested six weeks earlier. I was then able to write directly to 106 new and intending citizens. This elicited about 16 replies.

Materials I have gathered so far include – THE GOOD CITIZEN, a 13 part series about Citizenship and Democracy, recently broadcast on Radio National. The set of seven tapes was purchased from the ABC and transcripts downloaded from the internet.

DISCOVERING DEMOCRACY – Primary and Secondary kits, put out by Curriculum Corporation with funding from the Australian Government. The Primary kit has been donated to the cause, the Secondary one has been borrowed.

FEDERATION – Almost three hours of quality ABC production, recently broadcast nationally plus the accompanying book. Purchased from the ABC.

A FULL SET OF TRANSCRIPTS from the 50th Anniversary of Australian Citizenship Conference held in Melbourne in July 1999.

The course format (see attached sheet) has, I feel, been very successful. From the opening evening, the informal but structured nature of the sessions has been a boon. We set out to encourage dialogue and while always having goals (immediate and longer term) in mind we allowed for a degree of flexibility that ensured that all participants were just that. Now after several weeks and a diversity of activities we have a regular group that is totally committed to the program and totally confident of their place in it. While this group numbers only six we have had others at each of our sessions to date. Especially popular were the trip to the Aboriginal sites, the Republican debate and the evening spent exploring issues of Reconciliation with a group of three Aboriginals from widely varying backgrounds. It is of interest to note here some of the effects thus far. The varying forms of citizenship as outlined by first night participants, when added to the already collected data, fully demonstrates the complexity of the term. The title of a useful background paper Perceiving Citizenship sums up the subjective nature of the concept of citizenship. The quick trip along the path of early Australian history was a revelation for most of the participants and provided much food for thought. Our ventures away from the MRC were successful in providing the "hands on" experiences we intended. A good crowd gathered for the Republican debate, at a time immediately prior to the vote. The fact that some of our participants took Australian Citizenship in the same week, added poignancy. Reconciliation is something obviously dear to many hearts and we feel that Globalization and the nuts and bolts of our electoral system are of great import.

We have progressed and will offer only a slightly modified program by day, next year.

Memories of Singleton Safe Haven 1999

ANNUAL REPORT: Singleton Safe Haven

Introduction:

War in the Balkans has been a recurring theme of History. In May Of this year the Australian Government offered Safety to over 4000 people from the Former Yugoslavian Autonomous Region of Kosovo. The safety was in the form of entry into Australia on a visa called the Safe Haven Visa. People who arrived on this Visa were allowed to stay in Australia for initially three months, in camps (Safe Havens), which would provide for all their needs and well being.

The MRC was called on to support the Safe Haven established at Singleton and established a team to perform the work required. This team began work on the 31 May, and spent nearly five months providing continuous activities over the whole week. The work was very intense, and at times overwhelming, and adds another chapter in the service given by the MRC .

Work At The Singleton Safe Haven

At first, and because we all lacked experience and the needs of the Kosovars were high, the focus of the work of the MRC during the first month was on identifying and responding to those needs. As the month progressed it become apparent that we had moved into a period requiring and implementing a range of activities. These activities included: recreational needs off site; religious; sporting activities; social and cultural development; and skills based needs.

Marvellous Hunter based community support and excellent working relationships with the other agencies involved at the Safe Haven meant that we were able to provide the Kosovars with many activities. In turn the Kosovars were able to contribute to local and state events which involved soccer matches against local teams, the provision of young players to participate in the junior competition, cultural presentations to the local community including to the Kurri Kurri Aged services, attendance at Greta 50th Reunion Anniversary and individual speaking engagements to View Clubs, Red Cross Regional Meeting, Rotary, and to Schools and Church groups.

Other community organisations supported in other ways. Most important was the participation by the Mosques located at Newcastle and the Central Coast in supporting the spiritual needs of the Kosovars. Further, we were able to create and operate an on site prayer room, which was fitted out as a mosque. This allowed other activities to be undertaken that were of significance to the residents the most imporant of these being four weddings.

There can be no doubt that the MRC played a vital role in the success of the Singleton Safe Haven. Early in the Safe Haven's history, Singleton was viewed as being the worst in Australia. At the time of its closure its reputation was that it had become the `model' for other Safe Havens.

The Team

Thanks go to our team for this success: Roz Kapusta, Shakila Kader, Miza Torlakovic, Emine Syla, Amir Sahovic, Dubravka Vasiljevic, Preena Prekpalaj and Hil Prekpalaj. Further, thanks to our colleague organisations for their sharing: the Singleton Council, Adult Migrant Education Service, Samaritans, Hunter Area Health, St Vincent de Paul, Red Cross, STARTTS, DIMA and Defence. Finally, the greatest thanks to the people of the Hunter and especially those living at Singleton.

Hunter Region Circuit Breaker is funded by the New South Wales State Government overseen by Department of Education and Training. It is sponsored in the Hunter by the Migrant Resource Centre, Newcastle and the Hunter and the Newcastle Police & Community Youth Club.

Circuit Breaker is a voluntary after school programme which is run for non English speaking background (NESB) youth in years 9 to 12 in local high schools. Circuit Breaker provides assistance for young non English speaking background people in the areas of Literacy, Numeracy, Personal Development, Self Esteem, Study Skills and Job Search Skills.

At present the ninth Circuit Breaker project is operating in the Hunter and has been funded to operate throughout the 1999/2000 financial year.

Students are referred by interested agencies, their high school or by self-referral and attend 2 afternoons per week between 4pm and 6pm with sessions being held at the Newcastle Police & Community Youth Club. The programme runs for a period of 12 months. As well as the subject areas mentioned above, the programme includes community visits, arts and crafts workshops, labour market workshops, social activities such as family picnics, wallclimbing, canoeing, tenpin bowling, roller skating and a camp which is held at Camp Mackay at Kurrajong. Clients are encouraged to participate in the activities that are available at the Hamilton Fiesta, various local multicultural groups, classes in their first language and wider based activities such as the Youth Week Forum, school activities and local sporting activities.

In June 1999 a graduation ceremony was held to mark the graduation of 31 students. The Graduation ceremony was well attended by clients, families and friends. A good representation of local politicians, school officials, principals and teachers also attended. Each of the graduates received their Circuit Breaker Certificate of Achievement as well as any of the additional Certificates they may have earned in computer skills or first aid. Two outstanding clients received a special certificate for Attendance, Attitude and Commitment. A large number of local High Schools and a wide range of Ethnic backgrounds were represented in the Project. The evening's programme concluded with a cultural display of dance and song which was presented by the SPICE group which included some of our own clients. The evening finished with graduates and their guests joining in supper which was prepared by the parents of members of the PCYC Brass Band.

Currently, I am conducting my fifth project as Course Coordinator. Recruitment for Project 9 commenced in August 1999 and afternoon sessions commenced in early September. At present we are making final arrangements to also conduct senior sessions at a few high schools in the area to cater for the special needs of the senior students. These young people will also have the opportunity to join in the afternoon sessions, which are conducted at the PCYC at Broadmeadow.

The present group of young people is starting to develop bonds and is showing signs of increasing confidence, ability, self-esteem and commitment to the Project. We still have some more work to do, but are confident that this group of young people will uphold the good name of Circuit Breaker.

We look forward to continuing the partnership, which has been, established between Circuit Breaker and our sponsors the MRC and the PCYC.
