Acknowledgement of Peoples

MOSAIC MULTICULTURAL CONNECTIONS (Mosaic)

acknowledges that the people of New South Wales are of different linguistic, religious and ancestral backgrounds who are free to profess, practise and maintain their own linguistic, religious and ancestral heritage.

We are committed to working in ways that support and empower these multicultural communities and peoples to have the greatest possible opportunity to contribute to, and participate in, all aspects of public life in which they may legally participate.

We recognise the linguistic and cultural assets of multicultural communities as a valuable resource and promote this resource to maximise the development of Mosaic and our wider Australian community.

Acknowledgement of Country

MOSAIC MULTICULTURAL CONNECTIONS acknowledges First Nations peoples, the traditional custodians and owners of the Lands on which we work and meet. We pay our respects to Elders past, present and emerging.

We acknowledge the spiritual, physical, emotional, mental and economic connections of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people to the Land and Seas.

We acknowledge that the dispossession of Country and the disruption to family relationships have resulted in a breakdown of social networks. We acknowledge that sovereignty of the Land was never ceded. This was, is and always will be land of First Nations peoples.

We are committed to working in ways that support and empower families and communities of all cultures. We acknowledge our responsibility to ensure that our services are culturally competent, culturally safe and sensitive.

Introducing Mosaic Multicultural Connections

Northern Settlement Services Limited has assisted people from migrant, refugee and multicultural backgrounds, and multicultural communities across Newcastle and the Hunter, Lake Macquarie, Central Coast, New England and North West regions of NSW for more than 40 years.

Originally established as the Migrant Resource Centre of Newcastle and Hunter Districts in 1981, we changed our name to Northern Settlement Services Limited in 2007.

In April 2022 Northern Settlement Services Limited commenced trading under the new registered business name and brand of Mosaic Multicultural Connections.

We continue to provide programs, services and activities across Newcastle and the Hunter Region, Lake Macquarie, the Central Coast and up to Tamworth and Armidale in New England.

Mosaic provides care, support and services in the areas of settlement, families and young people, aged care, and community development.

Led by an experienced and skilled board of directors and professional management staff, Mosaic is reaching more people and having a deeper impact in the lives of multicultural people and communities in the communities we serve.

From the Board Chair

I AM PLEASED TO REPORT that after another challenging year adapting to life after COVID-19, we continue to safely deliver programs that support migrant and refugee settlement.

Over this past year we have continued this journey of significant change that began a little over two years ago with the appointment of Sharon Daishe as our Chief Executive Officer. We remain committed to embracing these challenges and overcoming barriers in an ever-changing environment

Over this year we have embedded a new vision and mission, affirmed our values, committed to a new strategic plan, and completed a rebrand of Northern Settlement Services Ltd (NSS) as Mosaic Cultural Connections. The NSS company lives on as we trade under this new business name.

We believe that this new brand reflects the amazing mosaic of cultures and peoples that we support and assist each day.

I am particularly pleased to see diversity and multiculturalism enshrined in the words of our mission, vision and strategy. Our new strategy is built on these five pillars:

- IDENTITY: we will be recognised as a trusted, responsive organisation.
- ENABLING and CONNECTING: we will support people and communities to be independent and live lives that they value.
- VOICE: we will support multicultural communities to have an effective voice and influence on decision-makers.
- COMMUNITY HARMONY and RESILIENCE: we will facilitate community participation and enhance community strength.
- ORGANISATIONAL RESILIENCE and CAPABILITY: we will have the physical, financial, technological, professional and human resources necessary to achieve our mission and strategic directions now and into the future.

As Sharon empowers her leadership group and staff to perform to their full potential, I am confident that, together with the prudent oversight by the Board, we will deliver more success in the years ahead.

On behalf of the Board I thank all our committed and caring staff, as well as our dedicated volunteers, for their effort and contribution.

Our heartfelt gratitude to all the funding bodies for their valued support as we provide essential services to all our clients including migrants and refugees.

With my decision to retire after 10 years on the Board, the past 4 as Chair, I very much would like to take this final opportunity to sincerely thank every Board member for their support, dedication and valued contribution.

JON CHIN JP
Chair

From the Chief Executive Officer

STRENGTH, AGILITY AND COLLABORATION – these hallmarks of Mosaic and our multicultural communities were exercised throughout 21-22.

Mosaic (as we are now known) ran weekly online community forums during the long months of the COVID lockdown. We held these forums in partnership with health, police and others.

The quality of the professional advice and information shared at these forums was credited with the high levels of vaccination and low levels of compliance fines in multicultural communities in our regions.

During lockdown, Mosaic partnered with the Hunter Community Legal Centre and University of Newcastle to assist the Afghan community to apply for visas to bring their loved ones to safety when the Taliban took control of Afghanistan in August 2021.

Sadly, many families await a response as the overwhelming need far exceeds the Australian government visa quota.

Nevertheless, Newcastle welcomed over 80 Afghan newcomers. We thank Novocastrians for their welcome and support, and the Maritime Union for their generous donation to Mosaic's visa assistance program.

Then, in 2022 when Russia invaded Ukraine, Mosaic helped identify and refer Ukrainians for humanitarian support after Australia offered temporary protection to Ukrainians arriving on tourist visas.

Thanks to Mosaic's Welcoming Workplaces (WWP) program, over 100 jobseekers from migrant and refugee backgrounds in the Hunter area received group and individual support resulting in over 30 employment and small business outcomes.

A multi-partner, multi-funder pilot, WWP engaged broad networks of local support despite the COVID lockdown. As WWP was only funded for one year, we are now seeking new sources of funding for the next phase.

Sharon Daishe
Chief executive officer

Running our COMPACT multicultural youth exchange program was more challenging under COVID-19 restrictions. However, the year ended with a wonderful exchange to Port Stephens.

We are thrilled to announce that Multicultural NSW has awarded Mosaic another two years of funding for this program. And as I write, Mosaic has just received a Youth Action award for this program.

In Armidale, Mosaic's REAP (Regional Employment and Agriculture Program) partnership with Rotary celebrated the first full planting season with a bumper harvest achieved during the pandemic.

Mosaic continued to seed fund REAP in 21-22, and Rotary secured donations for Mosaic to continue to employ a part-time bilingual worker. We anxiously await the outcome of a federal tender, lodged in February 2022, to fully fund REAP for another 2-3 seasons.

Mosaic's multicultural aged care team continued to provide culturally responsive in-home and social services during the pandemic. Isolation was a significant issue and with clients declining services to protect themselves from exposure to COVID-19. Mosaic moved social support online wherever possible.

In the year ahead, Mosaic is focusing on strengthening the quality and coverage of our aged care services and recruiting a larger team of culturally and linguistically diverse carers.

Mosaic's multicultural families team strengthened their practice through a range of training during the year, including learning how to use the highly regarded Circle of Security.

Mosaic adopted an investment budget for 21-22 to continue to transform our capability and cover funding gaps, especially in our severely under-funded federal settlement program.

Whilst heartened by the new federal government's changing approach to humanitarian settlement, we are told not to expect significant new funding. Our investment in capability is positioning us to diversify programs and funding sources.

Mosaic's work and impact is made possible by our funders, our directors, our staff, our volunteers and our multiple connected networks of people and organisations including the individuals and communities we exist for.

I express my appreciation to all of you, individually and collectively, for enabling Mosaic to support multicultural individuals and communities to overcome barriers and thrive.

Jon Chin, Mosaic's chair for the past 4 years and director for 10 years, will retire at this year's AGM. Jon steered Mosaic through many challenges and has provided unconditional support and wise counsel over these years.

Mosaic's treasurer, Alexander Seccombe, will also retire. Through this year Ewa Korczynski Barney Langford and Carla Silva resigned from the board. So thank you Jon, Alexander, Ewa Barney and Carla. It has been a pleasure and privilege to work under your leadership.

Debbie Carstens, Mosaic's manager settlement and communities, also deserves mention for her contribution to Mosaic and the wider settlement sector. Debbie has harnessed multicultural networks across Mosaic's regions to enhance positive outcomes for new and emerging communities.

Under Debbie's leadership, Mosaic has attracted new funding to deliver an expanded suite of settlement and community programs. Debbie will leave us for family reasons in 2023.

As Jon Chin mentioned in his report, Mosaic adopted a new community-centred strategy during the year. We have recently set targets to achieve our strategy, and will plan annual activities based on transforming capability to support growth and achieve service excellence.

In the years ahead, Mosaic will continue to collaborate and adapt to ensure multicultural communities can live lives they choose and value in Australia.

SHARON DAISHE
Chief Executive Officer

Our vision

Our vision is of a community where diversity defines and nourishes us.

Our mission

Our mission is to support and inspire culturally diverse people and communities to overcome barriers and thrive.

Our values

- Trust
- Transparency
- Respect
- Collaboration
- Creation

Mosaic Settlement and Communities

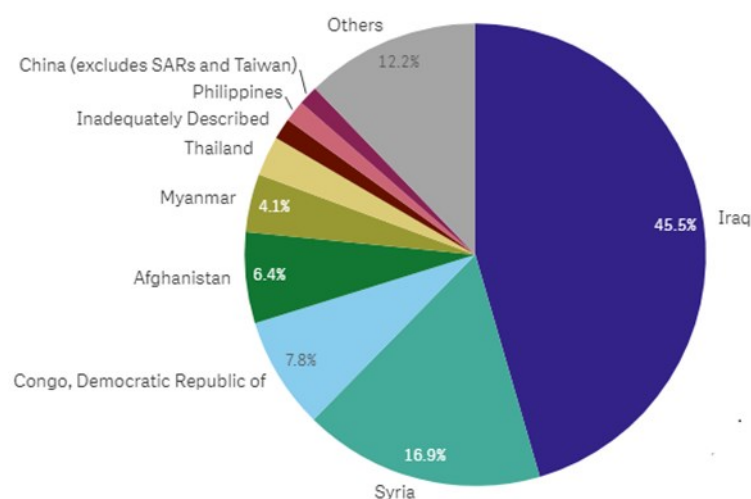

THE SETTLEMENT AND COMMUNITIES team delivered 14 programs from 13 funding sources for people from migrant and refugee backgrounds. Our team of 26 people have worked tirelessly throughout the year providing information, advice and referral, advocacy, casework, community education, group work, volunteer support, youth activities and more.

Settlement support

Our settlement program supports people who have recently arrived in Australia, especially those with limited English. We support people to build their knowledge and ability to find, access and use other community services and become independent.

Settlement workers worked with 1007 people in the 12 months to June 2022, 537 of whom were women. The largest groups were from Iraq, Syria, the Congo and Afghanistan. Others were Karen from Burma, Thai, Tibetan, Chinese and Filipino.

This year we commenced specific work focussing on domestic and family violence (DFV). This new work recognised the role of settlement workers as first point of contact for DFV victims. We are building the skills of all settlement staff to work effectively with DFV victims.

Key staff in each region will work on more complex DFV cases and community education, and do outreach into regional towns where migrant women are often isolated and potentially vulnerable.

We also work with men through community education and supporting behaviour change in those who have used violence in their family relationships .

Community Capacity Building

Community capacity building is part of all the work we do. This year we also received some targeted funding through Department of Home Affairs and Central Coast Council to do small intensive community capacity building projects.

We worked with over 130 active community members and community leaders, building their capacity to both respond to challenges, and work on opportunities for developing their community activities.

COVID-19 Information and discussion sessions

26 COVID-19 information and discussion sessions were held on Zoom for active community members and community leaders in multicultural communities. We delivered these sessions in partnership with Hunter New England Health, Newcastle Police, Hunter Multicultural Communities and STARTTS.

More than 110 community members involved, with an average attendance of 35-40 people. Weekly sessions were held from August to December 2021, including some in specific languages. These sessions continued into 2022.

Experts were drawn from Hunter New England Health and Newcastle Police, with visits also from Centrelink regarding support payments and school representatives about COVID-19 and school participation. Multicultural NSW and City of Newcastle also attended and shared updates and resources.

Community members took information to their communities to share on social media platforms, in conversations, in one on one support, and in social networks. They brought responses, questions and concerns from their community members back to the weekly sessions.

Afghan crisis response

The Newcastle Afghan community was greatly impacted by the rapid takeover of Afghanistan by the Taliban as Australian and other Coalition Forces withdrew after 20 years in Afghanistan.

Former Australian Defence Force interpreters and the Hazara Afghan community were deeply distressed about the targeting of their family and friends in Afghanistan and the deterioration of their country.

Our crisis response had three elements.

Direct government engagement: We organised and supported 14 Afghan community representatives to meet with the Department of Home Affairs Community Engagement Team to raise concerns, share information and ask questions. Three meetings were held, one with Hazara representatives and two with former Defence Force Interpreters. This led to ongoing direct connections with government representatives for these Afghan representatives.

Three Afghan community leaders were invited to meetings with Minister and Prime Minister representing Newcastle Afghans, and two Afghan community leaders joined a Multicultural NSW Afghan Reference Group.

Focussed community meetings: we supported Afghan community leaders to organize and speak at a mainstream community gathering about the Afghan Crisis, seeking community understanding and support for people in danger in Afghanistan and their family and friends in Australia.

Hunter Community Alliance hosted the event. 5 Afghan community representatives spoke with 120 people attending on Zoom.

We arranged a session with a Legal Aid Migration Lawyer to present and discuss processes to sponsor people to come to safety in Australia.

138 people attended the Zoom presentation that went for 3 hours.

Our Migration Agent and team members then worked with Legal Aid, Hunter Community Legal Centre, University of Newcastle, Catholic Care and other partners to develop and distribute fact sheets on the process and support people to prepare applications.

Central Coast multicultural community and families team

These projects aim to strengthen multicultural families, children, young people and communities, and support their connection to the wider community. They build on the existing strengths of multicultural families, and are open to all families from multicultural backgrounds on the Central Coast.

Communities for Children

During 2021 face-to-face Playing Around the World playgroups were replaced by online catch-ups and material and conversations posted in closed Facebook groups. Once restrictions eased we commenced with Playgroups in the Park and then eventually moved back to indoor venues with outdoor spaces.

In January 2022 we were very pleased to receive a dramatic increase in our funding for Communities for Children Wyong, as a community partner under the Benevolent Society.

We are now running three Playing Around the World playgroups in Wyong, Blue Haven and The Entrance, and have started a Parents Around the World Group at Mardi.

The size of groups has built steadily as community confidence has slowly returned during 2022 after the extended lockdown and gradual easing of restrictions early in the year.

ABOVE: Supported by our Mosaic team in Tamworth, members of the Karen community helped collect over 340 kilograms of rubbish as part of Clean Up Australia Day.

The Parents Around the World group have been sharing their skills with each other, while discussing various topics around children, parenting, life on the Central Coast and common issues.

Activities have supported their mental health as well as developed skills and creativity including an art therapy session, a Ukrainian cooking class and a macrame project.

Multicultural community development

Our multicultural community development project has moved from online catch ups and resource sharing during COVID-19 isolation in 2021 to increasing group activity and some events in 2022.

We have had 77 registered clients engaged involved in ongoing activities. They have been from Russian, Ukrainian, Spanish speaking, Indian, Chinese, Iraqi and other backgrounds. A further 100 people have been engaged in activities and events.

The Russian and Spanish speaking Playing around the World groups have been led by volunteers and supported by our staff.

In 2022 we started a “New Mums” Group to assist new parents as they navigate Australian systems. These new mums bring their own rich cultural parenting practices to us. The group helps to break down social isolation especially for those who have limited family and friends around them in Australia.

Community projects - Welcoming Workplaces Newcastle

With funding from the Scanlon Foundation and Department of Home Affairs, Mosaic ran a very successful program linking employers and multicultural community members looking for work. The City of Newcastle also supported accessible vocational training opportunities.

This project helped break down many barriers to employment so that multicultural community members can prepare for and be successful in Australian workplaces. Mosaic engaged mainstream employment service providers, small business organisations and training providers.

We worked individually with 66 people, with 25 gaining ongoing employment or established a small business. Three overseas-qualified engineers gained recognition of their qualifications and membership of the Australian Association of Engineers.

REAP Armidale

The Regional Employment Agricultural Project (REAP) in Armidale has provided access to land for people for a group of Ezidi people from refugee background to apply and adapt their existing rural skills in the Australian context.

Fifteen participants and their families commenced growing in 2021, with varying success in production. All learned from the experience.

Six of the most successful growers sold produce at local farmers markets and other outlets in 2022. Other growers shared their produce with friends and family.

A second round of training was undertaken with 8 participants completing 2 Units of the Certificate II in Agriculture in workplace health and safety, and fencing.

REAP is run in partnership with The Rotary Club of Armidale, and has been seed funded by NSS with in kind support, small grants and donations from a range of sources. We continue to seek ongoing funding to fully develop our vision for REAP.

Northern Youth Exchange – COMPACT

Mosaic's Northern Multicultural Youth Exchange program works with multicultural youth to build engagement, relationships, mutual understanding and respect with young people from regional communities including Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders.

The COVID-19 pandemic prevented multi-day cultural exchange trips, so we ran one day and half day exchanges, and individual and small groups leadership activities.

With greater freedom in 2022 we have commenced:

- One day and multi-day youth exchange programs with multicultural youth travelling to regional centres where there are smaller numbers of multicultural young people
- Community building and leadership activities as the young people travel and engage with the communities we visit
- Group engagement in volunteering

Other activities

We continue to run our popular Homework and Learning Centres in partnership with Jesmond Primary School, Heaton Primary School, and Waratah Technology Campus in Newcastle, and Drummond Primary School in Armidale.

Volunteers assisted student groups with a range of fun learning activities and one-to-one tutoring for students from Syrian, Kurdish, Iraqi, Afghan, Congolese and Ezidi refugee backgrounds.

Mosaic also hosted a large Iftar dinner, a women's bus trip and a children's activity day.

We have begun working on a Refugee Cancer Project with the NSW Cancer Institute and supporting consultation and community education around cancer screening.

And we are blessed by Gener Lapina who is improving our case management practice.

Debbie Carstens, manager

Mosaic Multicultural Family Support

MOSAIC'S MULTICULTURAL FAMILIES TEAM provides specialist support for families with children up to 18 years. The team offers programs, support and activities to help parents and families from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds (CALD) raise happy and healthy families. This year we have supported 157 clients.

We support and empower parents who are expecting a baby and families with children up to eight years of age who live in Newcastle and Lake Macquarie. Our team of Pet, Miza, Juanita and Elena are amazingly experienced in supporting multicultural families adapt and grow in Australia.

Women's support groups

Our women's support groups in Warners Bay and Hamilton are a great way for women to meet up, share with others and discover more about parenting in a supportive environment. They are also a great way to build a parent's social network.

Support for parents expecting or caring for a new baby

Our qualified and experienced team can visit new parents in their home to support them and ensure they are connected to health and other government services and community agencies. Our team can link and refer families to other service providers to address their specific needs.

Great parents raising great kids

Our qualified and experienced team deliver evidence-based programs such as Bringing Up Great Kids so that moms and dads can learn more about raising great kids, and and Circle of Security which helps parents know how to respond to their children's emotional needs.

The Multicultural Families program is funded by the NSW Department of Communities and Justice (DCJ) through the Targeted Earlier Intervention program.
